

H.P. Pelzer
Troy, Michigan

A 35,000 s.f. laboratory/engineering facility where sound and vibration testing is performed on automotive components in sound-proof, atmosphere-controlled semi-anechoic chambers. The facility's exterior facade was designed with a flowing curved roof-line to suggest an acoustical sound wave.

Campbell/Manix